MENTORSHIP

Each Amity Scholar is given a teacher mentor to guide them through their journey and refer them to resources and supports. Each mentor is assigned with a scholar's specialty, strengths and interests in mind. Mentors meet with scholars throughout the school year to map out their targets and goals. These targets are specific and measurable. Studies have shown the more tangible a student's long-term goals the more likely they are to achieve them.

Scholars and mentors work together to explore possibilities and draw up a specific list of programs and universities. Super-curricular activities are designed to best suit requirements for selected entry pathways. Careers advice is curated alongside larger aspirations for higher education. Scholars will have substantial targets for:
